

“SAUVAGE”

Two creatures are struggling to exist. Everything shatters and everything is put back together. The world and their bodies reattach in ever-changing combinations.

These creatures do not know if they will eventually dodge what is about to crush them.

Surprisingly they go on and on with their elusive life cycle. After all, the only thing they are left with is survival. Isn't life a miracle? They may feel so small and terrified sometimes, some other times a bit aggressive. But let's be honest here, they are completely harmless. If only they could pull this off!
